

Become a Gathering History Volunteer for the Five Oaks Museum in Washington County

The Five Oaks Museum describes itself as “a gathering place of vibrant art, culture and storytelling — a resource for all who are curious about the world around us. It’s a place for everything from learning and self-reflection to the sheer joy of making art or enjoying cultural traditions together.”

Gathering History Volunteers will help in the museum’s remote Gathering History Project. This project aims to collect personal accounts of the COVID-19 pandemic in the hopes of teaching future generations about what is happening in our community during this extraordinary time.
